

Get involved in marine life recording and contribute to our knowledge of the seas!

Volunteer with the Big Sea Survey and discover the fascinating species inhabiting our coasts.

The Dove Marine Laboratory is recruiting volunteers to participate in the Big Sea Survey project, an exciting regional venture funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

The project will lead to:

- The collection of valuable data
- Information about our rich biodiversity
- Protection and conservation of marine habitats

As a volunteer you will get the opportunity to find out more about the fascinating species inhabiting our coasts.

No previous experience is necessary.

Training will be provided, and you will get the chance to learn about field surveying, recording and species identification.

The level of involvement is then completely up to you, and will fit well into busy lives.

To sign up or find out more contact the Big Sea Survey

bigseasurvey@ncl.ac.uk

Tel: 01912223059

Dove Marine Laboratory
School of Marine Science and Technology
Newcastle University
Cullercoats
Tyne and Wear
NE30 4PZ

